

Unit Name: Analogue Electronics 2 Simulation 2

Title

The Zener Diode

Details

The Zener diode is a silicon PN junction device that differs from rectifier diodes because it is designed to operate in the reverse-breakdown region. The breakdown voltage of the Zener diode is set by carefully controlling the doping level during the manufacturing process.